

❖ Example of an active researcher with publication experience

Katharine James

2013 - PhD Psychological Research, University of Cape Town, South Africa

2010 - MA Psychological Research, University of Cape Town, South Africa

2005 - BA (Hons) Psychology and Organizational Psychology, University of Cape Town, South Africa

Dr James is currently a postdoctoral fellow in the Department of Medicine at the University of Cape Town, South Africa. She obtained her PhD in Psychological Research in the Department of Psychology at the University of Cape Town and the division of Clinical Neuroscience at Groote Schuur Hospital in Cape Town. Her doctoral research focused on Alzheimer's disease and risk factors for cognitive impairment in a sample of South African older adults, covering the areas of cognition, psychosocial and biochemical factors, neuroimaging and biomarkers. Dr James is also a clinical neuropsychologist, with particular interest in the emerging field of gerontology. A tutor for undergraduate statistics and clinical psychology courses at the University of Cape Town, she has also presented parts of her research at both local and international conferences, been published in a set of conference proceedings and acted as a peer-reviewer. She is a member of the Golden Key International Honour Society and has received numerous research scholarships. She joined the Edanz Group as an editor in 2012.

Featured editor text

Clinical neuropsychologist focused on gerontology, with research experience in Alzheimer's disease

❖ Example of an expert scientist with academic and industrial experience

David Frishman

1980 - PhD Thermodynamics, University of California Los Angeles, USA

1970 - BSc Geology, University of Pennsylvania, USA

Dr Frishman has expertise in petrology, economic geology, and environmental geology. He was employed by the United States Geological Survey in Denver, Colorado for 15 years investigating the geology, geochemistry, and origin of uranium, gold, and other metallic mineral deposits and working as part of a team to assess regional mineral resource potential in the United States. Dr Frishman was also involved in studies of a variety of aspects of environmental geology. While working in the geology industry, he explored for and drilled metallic mineral prospects in the western United States. He has also worked with geologists from Ghana and Argentina to produce English-language reports on the geology of their home countries. Dr Frishman has extensive writing and editing experience. He has 30 peer-reviewed publications and has reviewed numerous papers as a peer reviewer for academic journals. He joined the Edanz Group as an editor in 2012.

Featured editor text

15 years with the U.S. Geological Survey and 10 years industry experience in geochemistry and metallic mineral exploration

❖ Example of a professional editor in the publishing industry

Katharine Butler

1979 - BA (Hons) Law and French, University of Kent, UK

Ms Butler has over 20 years of experience in academic and professional publishing in both Hong Kong and the UK. In Hong Kong, Ms Butler worked for publishers such as Pearson Professional, Addison Wesley Longman, Sweet & Maxwell and Euromoney, both as a project manager and as a freelance editor and writer. She gained considerable experience in working with writers from Hong Kong and mainland China on a range of publications, mainly legal and academic. She also worked on course materials for the Open University of Hong Kong and assisted in preparing English language teaching materials for Bank of China staff. Since returning to London in 2000, Ms Butler has continued to work as a freelance editor for various research consultancies and organizations, and as a French media analyst specializing in financial, legal and business areas. Ms Butler joined the Edanz Group as an editor in 2014.

Featured editor text

Publishing professional specializing in academic and legal texts